WHEAT FIELD TO MARK SCENE OF OUTLAWRY

Square Covered By Burned Warehouse to Be Cultivated.

NOW REMOVING DEBRIS.

Mr. Latham Buys the Cooper Lot and Now Owns Whole Square.

Mr. John C. Latham, the New York capitalist, whose warehouse was burned by outlaws on the morning of December 7th, has purchased the warehouse lot of W. T. Cooper west of his own lot, upon which the storage house of Woodridge & Co. stood and was also burned by the spreading of the flames. This lot was between the Latham lot and the Louisville & Nashville R. R. and the two made a full block. Mr. Latham now owns the entire square, containing a little more than one acre.

His orders are to clean off the lot, dig up the foundations of the burned buildings and as a preliminary step to turning it into a permanent grass plat will have it sowed in wheat, to make it green during the winter. His further plan is understood to be to convert the vacant lot into a little park fronting the depot of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, similar to the one east of Hotel Latham.

Thus it will stand as an enduring monument to the fanatical warfare made upon this great benefactor of Hopkinsville by the masked marauders who engaged in a devil's dance around his burning property while he was a thousand miles away.

The destruction of Mr. Latham's property, a man absolutely unconnected in any way with the tobacco troubles, except that once a week a sale of loose tobacco was made in a part of the big warehouse, rented to a local firm, was the most fiendish of all the crimes committed by the rioters who now want to "compromise" their deeds of infamy to escape prosecution.

The work of tearing down the walls of the Cooper building and removing the vast amount of wreckage will take several weeks. Seven wagons were put to work this week hauling off the debris left by the fire and dynamite of the invaders.

SUNDAY BALL

Will be Played Outside the City Limits.

Manager Frank Bassett has rented the Faulkner lot on South Main street, between the T. C. railroad and the city limits and will have a ball game to-morrow, outside the city, between the Hopkinsville team and the Cheek-Neals of Nashville.

Mr. Bassett says his attorneys advise him that there is no state law against Sunday ball playing for amusement. A bill introduced in the last legislature making it unlawful was never reported from the committee on Public Morals.

The city council recently passed on ordinance prohibiting Sunday ball inside the city limits.

Runaway Scrape.

A horse driven by Cap Schmidt, a salesman for the Planters Hardware Co., ran away Thursday and Schmidt was thrown out near the I. C. depot, but was not hurt much. He held on to the lines and the horse was finally stopped. The buggy was considerable broken up.

MILLION LBS. LOOSE SALES TO IMPERIAL

Important Announcement of Deal Made for Robertson County Weed.

THE FIRST LOOSE SALE.

Special Arrangements Made With the Agency of C. C. Bell & Son.

The Springfield Herald is authority for the statement that the Imperial Tobacco Co., through its Springfield, Tenn., agents, C. C. Bell & Son, through a special arrangement with the Planters Protective Association, is to buy 1,000,000 pounds or more of the best grades of Robertson county tobacco loose. The article is as follows:

"We have it through positive information that C. C. Bell & Son, the well known representatives of the Imperial Tobacco Company for this section, will no longer buy their tobacco from the barns, but hereafter will fill their orders through the Planters Protective Association.

This news will be hailed with pleasure not only in Robertson county, but throughout tobacco circles over the entire dark district.

C. C. Bell & Son is one of the oldest and most prominent firms and the largest handlers of strips in the dark tobacco belt. To fill their orders for the Imperial Tobacco Company, of England, it requires a million or more pounds of the best grades of tobacco produced here each year.

By agreement and through special arrangements with the Association, Col. Bell is to receive his purchase unpriized, that being the only way he can handle the tobacco for his trade."

As this announcement comes from General Manager Ewing's home paper, it would seem to indicate a new and very important change in the rules of the Association in the future. If the report is true, one of the principal objections to the Association's plan of selling is to be removed and sales will be made to suit the demands of different lines of trade. The Herald does not give the price.

ALL THINGS LOOK VERY BRIGHT FOR THE DEMOCRATS

Opponent of Bryan's Nomination Finds Surprising Change.

GAINING STRENGTH.

Leaders in New York Surprisingly Confident of Carrying That State.

Washington, D. C., Representative A. O. Stanley, of Henderson, in the Second Kentucky District, who is in Washington on a brief business trip, is one of those Democrats who were skeptical of the wisdom of nominating William J. Bryan. Talking today of his change of mind, Mr. Stanley said:

"I had talked with political leaders of the East and other sections, and I had almost been convinced that some other man than Bryan would make a stronger candidate, but since the convention at Denver and after I have traveled over the country, I am amazed at the strength developed by Mr. Bryan. Now, while I will not claim that Bryan will be elected, it is my opinion that he will.

"The overwhelming defeat of the Democratic ticket in 1904 was brought about by the radical Republicans, the radical Democrats, enthusiastic colored voters and the laboring men. The latter were content with the situation that then prevailed. They did not want a change. Today conditions are different, and I do not believe that the Republican managers expect to win the election if it were held to-morrow. Of course, neither party has had more than its first innings, and no one can tell what may happen between now and November, but if Bryan continues to gain strength there is nothing, in my opinion, that can defeat him.

"Kentucky will be found safely in the Democratic column. The bitterness among the Democrats in the senatorial fight has vanished and the party is united. There is not the least danger of Republicans winning in Kentucky.

IN NEW YORK.

"The most important and promising Democratic outlook anywhere in the country is in New York State," said Representative Frank Clark, of Florida, secretary of the Democratic Congressional Committee, who has just returned from a stay of several days in New York City, where he has been to see a number of Democratic leaders. Mr. Clark is looking after the conduct of the campaign for Congressmen in the Eastern States, and is greatly encouraged by the situation he found in New York.

"It is a most peculiar situation," he continued. "It is with the Republicans in their woe over Gov. Hughes, a case of 'damned if we do and damned if we don't.' There has not, in the opinion of many oldtimers, been a situation just like it for the Republicans in the Empire State in twenty years. The Demo-

MANY NEGROES TO SUPPORT BRYAN-KERN

Movement Against Taft Is Reaching Large Proportions.

FORMIDABLE SPLIT

In Republican Party Growing Out of Taft's Unpopularity.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The Rev. J. Milton Waldron, president of the National Negro American Political League, is back from a trip to Rochester, N. Y., where he went to consult prominent men of his race in reference to opposing Judge Taft for President and doing all in their power to have the negroes cast their votes outright for Mr. Bryan.

Dr. Waldron says that in his travels through New York he met many well-to-do and intelligent negroes who formerly took leading parts in Republican contests, but this year they are freely and openly offering their services to the Democrats, and have been put to work to do all in their power to induce their race to support Mr. Bryan.

"While up North," said the preacher, "I was told that a great many negroes who had been soldiers, were violently opposed to Taft and had expressed their preference for Bryan."

"Some of the negro newspapers announced within the last month that Bishop Henry Turner, of Georgia, who is the first national vice president of the league had decided to support Taft. Dr. Waldron denounces that a silly and malicious statement, and he pulled from his pocket a negro paper called the "Voice of the People," published at Atlanta. The publication is a monthly, and that issue was for the coming month of September, and was fresh from the press. The leading editorial was written by Bishop Turner who is ranked as the ablest Bishop in the negro church. Well, that editorial is certainly an animated one. The Bishop says for the Republican party without gloves, and from start to finish lambasts Taft and Roosevelt both. The bishop states that he is for Bryan."

COMPROMISED

Suit of Mockbee vs. Breslin Settled Out of Court.

The damage suit of Mrs. Witty, formerly Mrs. Mockbee, against P. J. Breslin, growing out of burns received by her son, Herbert Mockbee, while operating a corn popper, has been compromised. The boy was injured by a flash of the gasoline used to furnish the flame for the machine. The case was tried at the last term of circuit court and a judgment given the plaintiff for $500. An appeal was taken, but the compromise will stop further proceedings. The amount to be paid by Breslin is $250. The plaintiff was represented by Southall & Son. The boy's injuries were slight and he has entirely recovered.

Wolf or Sheep?

By J. LUDLUM LEE.

Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

There was a run up the Hlon National bank, and depositors were standing in line hour after hour waiting their turn to withdraw their money. Paying tellers worked with deliberation that was maddening. Some days only half a dozen people would be paid off, but still the line increased, hoping against hope. For two days and nights the figure of a young girl had been noticed. She was slowly working her way to the front. At 2:45 p. m. on the third day she was admitted to the bank and withdrew her entire account. To avoid confusion depositors were admitted at one door and passed out through a side entrance, and as she emerged from the latter she cast a hurried glance about her. She gave a sigh of relief when she saw that she was quite alone and apparently unnoticed. Then suddenly a tall man appeared in the doorway behind her. Lillian Burkhardt trembled as she eluded the roll of bills, her teeth chattered, the color faded from her cheeks, and she was conscious that her hands trembled visibly. The man looked at her sharply, stepped forward and asked if he could be of service to her.

"You seem to be in trouble. Can I do anything for you?" he asked, with some concern.

"You can go away," she managed to answer.

The man calmly proceeded to button his heavy ulster, slipped his hand in the pocket thereof and pulled out a heavy pair of gloves, which he drew on slowly. His tall, broad shoulders were surmounted by a handsome clear cut face; his whole appearance was faultless. He was conversant with Lillian, whose color had not yet returned and who seemed to tremble from head to foot.

"Really, I feel that I must call for assistance. Will you have a cab or a doctor? It would be nothing short of brutal to leave you here shivering like that. Are you ill or simply cold? I insist upon knowing."

Lillian was forced to look at him again, and it seemed to give her courage to speak.

"Were you ever hungry?" she murmured as she took a firmer hold on the bills.

"Yes, indeed," said her companion. "But never with that amount of money in my grasp."

Lillian started with a sudden jerk at the mention of her money and dropped the entire roll of bills. He stooped to pick it up, and after one wild shriek she called distractedly:

"Stop thief! Stop, I say!"

The crowd was massed in front of the bank, and the cry seemed to have passed unnoticed. The man picked up the bills despite her exclamation and handed them to her. Lillian laughed a sickly little smile, saying:

"Perhaps you're not a thief after all—are you?"

"No, I'm not! Are you?" suggested the man.

"I am merely one of the many depositors trying to get a few dollars. But you were more fortunate than I. When I reached the window the cashier pulled it down, saying it was 3 o'clock and too late to draw. Better put that wad of old sight and not tempt the hysterical mob outside," he added.

"That's what I wanted to do, but you won't go away and let me. A woman doesn't have pockets all over her clothes like a man. And oh, I wish you would go, for I'm so hungry and want to get home. I've stood in that line for nearly three days to get money for the landlord. My but I hate that man!" she expostulated, with a shiver of her pretty shoulders.

"Well, I'll be on my way, and be sure you tuck it safely away in its hiding place. I'll promise not to look back." He laughed and turned on down the street.

Lillian hurriedly slipped the bills in the bosom of her gown and nervously started in the opposite direction toward her little home. Her mother met her at the door, and after some hot luncheon the girl was equal to relating her troubles.

"But, mother, we have the money, and that old Shyluck can be paid. I'll take it around to him myself in the morning and just tell him what I think of him," said Lillian, with some satisfaction and a threatening intonation of her voice.

The next morning about 10 o'clock she started for her mother's office, and as she passed the long line waiting at the bank she thought how fortunate she had been. "Extras" were out saying that no more depositors would be paid.

Arriving at the office of Payne & Payne on Main street, she entered the snug little reception room and asked for Mr. Payne.

"Which one, ma'am?" asked the office boy at the door.

"Why, the one who owns our house, the cross one," she added by way of further explanation.

The boy seemed to know which man she wanted and disappeared in the inner office. He returned in a few minutes, saying that he must go right in, ushered her to the door and closed it after her.

Once inside, Lillian, blushing to the roots of her red locks, found her proffered her a chair beside his desk, "Take a seat, my dear, and I have the reputation of being the 'cross' member of the firm. You see, father is very old and apt to be easy going as to the observance of rules. What can I do for you, Miss Burkhardt?"

"I came to pay my rent. Your agent said if it wasn't paid today he would dispossess me. Now, see, we have money in the bank, but it was tied up, and he wouldn't wait. He said, 'Them's my orders.' Here is the money. Will you give me a receipt, please?"

"I never authorized any agent to say that, Miss Burkhardt, and I tell you what I wish you would do. Just put that money back in that mysterious pocket of yours and pay the rent when it is perfectly convenient. I promise that you shall not be bothered by an insolent collector any more. I will call the rent myself—if I may," he added, with some hesitation. "That collector of mine needs a lesson."

"It would be so nice if I could keep the money," said the poor tradespeople, if you do not mind. You see, only part of our money is in that bank, and the trust company has closed its doors too. Mother's pension never comes before the 15th," said Lillian by way of explanation.

"Won't you let me drive you home in my sleigh?" Payne asked as she rose to go. "The streets are rather riotous these days with the howling mob crying for their money." And without waiting for her answer he put on his fur coat that hung on the door.

"You have quite persuaded yourself, I hope, that I am not a thief?" he beamed.

"Oh, Mr. Payne, how can I ever apologize sufficiently for my rudeness and at the same time thank you for your kindness? You know, I was frightfully hungry, and standing in line so long had affected my brain. I don't seem to feel that every one who looked at me wanted to steal that money. And, oh, I'm so delighted to have that sleigh ride!"

He tucked her in the sleigh, and off they started down the busy streets, then on to the outskirts of the village, the longest way home. The ringing sleigh bells, the clear, cold air and the glorious sunlight filled them both with life, and they chatted incessantly for an hour, when they drove up to the little cottage. Mrs. Burkhardt waved them from the window and met Lillian at the door, beaming with pleasure. It took some time to tell the mother how it happened, and the father, who had been waiting, smiled and went about the house with renewed energies. The landlord was not such a terror after all.

Mr. Payne called several times that month, always insisting that the rent was not yet needed, and his daytime visits generally meant a sleigh ride over the hills and back to the open air, where they soon grew to be great confidants.

It was the first day of another month, and Mr. Payne called that evening. Yes, he had come to collect the rent this time, he answered as they drew two easy chairs before the fire.

"But mere money won't do," he said slyly as he drew a little nearer to her and took her hand in his. "I want you, little girl, to be my wife. Will you?" he pleaded.

"Are you sure you love me—sure you love me—sure you love me, with drooping glances and flushed cheeks."

"I am so sure, dear heart, that I want nothing else in all the world but you. And I'll tell you to be sure, a cross husband as I am a landlord. Say 'Yes,' Lillian, and my life shall be yours to do with as you will."

"Yes, surely yes," Lillian murmured as he drew her lovely head to his shoulder and kissed the way locks that would slip out of bondage.

Hathorn's Horse Marines.

One of the great practical jokes of the British navy was one Jack Hathorn. He was officer of the watch in the day when it was customary for the guard to present arms to the officer commanding the vessel whenever he left or boarded the ship. One day Captain Burdett remarked as they were going through this ceremony before he went ashore: "Mr. Hathorn, I am tired of this guard. Don't call it again when I come back."

Hathorn did not, but he managed to surprise the captain quite as thoroughly as if he had. When that dignitary came over the side on his return he found twenty of the after guard down on their hands and knees with swabs serving them for noses and tails, the mizzen top men on their backs with cutlasses drawn. Hathorn himself was attired a quartermaster. The captain was distinctly not delighted with the spectacle, whereupon Hathorn explained that he supposed that after the old fashion had proved so tiresome a reception by every ship, he thought he would. Hathorn was dismissed from the service for this bit of pleasantry.

Sized Him Up Correctly.

The man came into the barber shop, but he wasn't after a shave, hair cut or shine. He looked about blankly for a moment and then asked:

"Where's the manicure?"

The boss was out at lunch, and it was the second barber who answered. "She's not here."

He didn't say "She's not here today" or "She's not here any more," just "She's not here."

"Oh," said the man who wanted the manicure rather inconclusively, "that's not much of an answer. Then suddenly, 'You're not the boss here, are you?'"

"No, I'm the second barber," replied the other.

"Well, that's what you'll always be," said the inquirer and went out.

THE BOY WHO DIDN'T.

And Now He Probably Regrets His Little Plan.

"Please, sir," said the office boy, "may I get away this afternoon?"
"What's wrong?" asked the great financier. "Is your grandmother dead?"
Little Willie had been taught that honesty was always the best policy. He was a good boy. He never sneaked stamps from his employer, and he never threw the pretty typewriter into his by whiggery to her that he had just seen a mouse scot under her desk. Being a truthful boy, little Willie replied:
"No, sir. I ain't got no grandmother. But the club that's in first place is going to play here today, and I'd like to see the game."
The old gentleman stared at him helplessly for a moment and then drew from his pocket $2, which he handed to the boy.
Ah, reader, you have already guessed that the great man felt in duty bound to encourage such frankness—but wait.
"Here," said Henry Hardrocks, "here's your week's wages. Don't come back any more. A boy that can't get up even a poor excuse on such an occasion as the present one never amount to anything in this business."
Thus do we learn that in being his own reward virtue continues to have few competitors. — Chicago Record-Herald.

A Love Scene.

"Before I went away you seemed to love me."
"Yes?"
"And now you are different."
"You are mistaken—utterly mistaken."
"Are you not different?"
"No, I am indifferent."
But even that did not seem to satisfy him. Some men are hard to please. — Cleveland Leader.

Summer Barnstormers.

"What's them that actor folks doing prowling around in the hot sun?" asked the postmaster of Bacon Ridge.
"They say they want to get the lay of the town," said the village cutup.
"Well, they needn't be in any hurry about that. They'll get the lay of the town and the country both to-night. The boys are out buying up every egg within four miles." — Detroit Tribune.

Gloomy Outlook.

"What are you worried about, Rastus?"
"I's worried 'bout rain, dat's what I's worried 'bout, an' I reckons I's winter keep worried all summer."
"But it is almost sure to rain before long."
"Yessuh. But when it do it's almost sure to be too much or not enough." — Washington Star.

The Human Mimos.

"Closely is such a stingy chump. He goes around rattling the dollars in his pocket, but he never spends a cent."
"Yes, I have noticed that too. Do you know why he reminds me of a sensitive plant?"
"No. Why?"
"Why, he withers every time you touch him." — Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

He Spoke Too Soon.

"Look here, old chap, forgive me for speaking of it, but you really ought to know. Your wife doesn't play a square game of bridge."
"My dear fellow, that's a compliment to you. It shows that she plays such a corking game that she couldn't afford to." — New York Life.

A Pointer For Percy.

Tess—Percy Vere was telling me that he still hopes to have the luck to win you.
Tess—Well, Percy will find that it takes more than luck to win me. I'm no raffle. — Philadelphia Press.

The Obliging Flamingo.

"I can't blame him. He owes me money and hasn't any way of paying it." — New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Clerical Clothes In New York.
"Today I encountered a whip of New York tailors that astonished me," said a western clergyman. "I ordered a suit of clothes from a man who refused to work for me."

"What's the reason you folks are passing me along to another tailor?" I asked. "Do I look hard to fit? Are you afraid you won't get your money?" "The tailor explained that neither of my guesses was correct. He declined to make my clothes simply because I am a clergyman and require a clerical cut. He let me down easily by stating further that he never undertook to make ecclesiastical garments, that very few of the lay tailors in New York do undertake them. They do not have enough of that kind of work to keep them constantly informed on the requirements of the different religious orders. A mistake would be embarrassing to the clergyman and to the tailor, so they hand all such customers over to tailors who make a specialty of such work."—New York Sun.

Don't be afraid, it's an Anchor.

Webster's Dictionary describes ANCHOR as follows: "That which gives stability or security—That on which we place dependence for safety."

The users of an Anchor define it as "A buggy which insures security—on which to place dependence for safety."

Why does the Anchor insure security?

Because it is built right—with the strongest gear, shafts, body, etc., ever constructed. Strongest, because of the high grade of material and the way it is built.

If you appreciate high-class mechanical construction, you'll appreciate the Anchor.

It's a stylish buggy too, comfortable and easy riding.

OWSLEY'S BROTHER.

Louisville Relative of Young Kentucky Congressman.

"Are you a brother of Congressman A. O. Stanley?" said a gentleman at the Seelbach last night, addressing George W. Stanley, to whom he had just been introduced. "A. O. Stanley is my brother," George Stanley replied.

A few minutes later he was introduced to another gentleman and the question again asked:

"Are you a brother of Congressman Stanley?"

Then George Stanley unfolded to his sponsor, Judge Henry DeHaven Moorman, of Hardinsburg, a tale of woe.

"It is the same old story," said Mr. Stanley. "Every time I meet a stranger I am introduced as the brother of Congressman Stanley or the question is asked if I am a relative of the Henderson lawyer. I have yet to meet the man to inquire if A. O. Stanley is my brother. It is tough on a young man in business to have a brother who figures in the public eye."

George Stanley is well known in Louisville and is connected with one of the leading establishments on Fourth avenue. He came here from Flemingsburg several years ago and has "made good" in Louisville. He is a Spanish-American War veteran, having been a member of the Glasgow company of the Third regiment, and he will make his way in the world, famous brother or no brother.—Louisville Times.

AT STATE'S REQUEST

Hearing in Bennett Murder Case at Clarksville Postponed.

Clarksville, Tenn., Aug. 28.—Judge Tyler in the Montgomery county criminal court, adjourned until September 9 the hearing in the application of defendants for a change of venue in the case of John Gardner and Walter Hunt, charged with the murder of Vaughn Bennett. The application for change of venue alleges prejudice in the county against defendants, and says they do not believe they could receive a fair trial here. Affidavits of defendants charge that speakers have made incendiary speeches and that night riders have sprung up from these speeches. They refer to the speech of Ed Webb at Clarksville, and to the memorial services held at the grave of Vaughn Bennett a short time after the shooting. The article published in the Black Patch Journal relative to these services was also read. The affidavits allege further that almost every night for a week before the shooting of Bennett persons had been committing various depredations throughout that section of the county. Several extracts from the speech of M. E. Webb, delivered at Clarksville a short time after the killing; also quotations from a speech of Charles H. Fort were read. Affidavits were read from citizens of Montgomery, Robertson, Stewart and Dixon counties stating, in effect, that they did not believe the defendants could secure a fair and impartial hearing in this county on account of the feeling against them.

M. G. Lyle, on behalf of the state, made the statement that, as the affidavits read by the attorneys for the defense had not been seen until today, the state needed about two weeks in which to prepare affidavits or introduce. Judge Tyler said he was desirous of hearing all the evidence in the case and would grant the application. The hearing was accordingly continued until Sept. 9.

More than 100 citizens stated that they did not believe the defendants could get a fair trial in Montgomery county.

Directoire Gowns This Fall.

"Paris says: Extreme Directoire modes for the autumn—the sheath skirt slashed at the sides, satin knickerbockers in place of petticoats, the highest of high collars and the slimmest of slim silhouettes," writes Grace Margaret Gould, a fashion expert, in Woman's Home Companion for September.

"New York says: Directoire modes? Yes, but first let us modify them. The American woman likes to take her fashions from France, but always subjects to her own ideas. She wants to be in style, of course, but she wants more to be herself. This will be especially evident this fall."

"The influence of the Directoire will be felt in the line of the new gowns and separate coats, in neckwear and in hats, but with our best dressed women the conspicuous features of the Directoire modes will be omitted."

To Run Trains by Telephone.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 28.—Linemen for the Cumberland Telephone Company have completed the work of stringing wires from Louisville to Memphis along the Illinois Central and the railroad will proceed to install apparatus for handling trains by telephone. Knockout For Cupid.

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 28.—Cupid received another knockout blow at the state soldier's home, the board of trustees having issued orders forbidding the marriage of members of the home. The order prohibits marriages between members of the home and marriages of veterans outside of the home. The order is mandatory.

New Law.

According to the new law passed at the last session of the General Assembly, beginning next month all Justices of the Peace will hold a monthly term of court in their district for the trial of civil cases. Court will convene in each district on the first Wednesday in the month.

EARLINGTON SOLDIERS

Accused by Guthrie Officer Not Surrendered to Him.

A Guthrie dispatch says a warrant was sworn out there Tuesday night by Joe Burrus, a watchman employed by the Louisville & Nashville railroad, for the arrest of two members of the Earlinton militia stationed there, charging them with breaking into a car for the purpose of stealing. The warrant was issued for Carl Meacham and W. R. Brashers, privates of Co. G, whom Burrus charges he found in the act of removing a case of whisky from a freight car on the night of August 16.

The men when arrested were placed under bonds of $250 and later they were transferred to this post and other soldiers sent to Guthrie. Burrus was here Wednesday, but was told that Maj. Bassett's orders were to hold the men here until he could decide upon a course to pursue. The soldiers deny their guilt and charge that a trap was set to put them in a compromising position. Maj. Bassett does not think his men would be safe in the hands of the civil officers at Guthrie by reason of the bitter feeling against the militia. The defenses of the accused soldiers will probably be that they were authorized to take the action they did, for some reason not yet given out. It is not stated to whom the whisky was consigned.

OWENSBORO MAN

Escapes From the Western Kentucky Asylum.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 27.—Joe Hayden has escaped from the Hopkinsville asylum, and he is supposed to be on his way home. That is the news telephoned to County Judge Owen by Dr. Gardner, superintendent of the asylum. Hayden made his escape sometime Tuesday night. He has been giving the asylum guards and patients much trouble ever since he has been in the asylum, having been sent there soon after he shot James Weir, Jr., on March 24. He has had to be kept in irons or securely strapped with leather thongs practically all the time he has been there, and it is said he had the leather straps on him when he got away.

COMMITTEE TO MEET.

District Politics Will Receive Attention To-day at Cerulean.

The Judicial District Committee will meet pursuant to call at Cerulean Springs to-day, but the opposition to a primary at this time has been so pronounced and so widespread that it is not believed that the Committee will take any action at this time, unless it be to call a primary for next spring. The primary was held five years ago on the 9th of May, 1903, and Judge T. P. Cook was nominated by a few votes over Judge C. H. Bush after an appeal to the State Central Committee was taken, which reversed the decision of the district committee. In the election following Judge Cook had 127 majority over his Republican opponent, Judge Jas. Breathitt. The district last fall gave Hager 104 majority over Willson.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of it in Hopkinsville But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help. Not an organ in the whole body so delicately constructed.

Not one so important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous.

There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble.

It is the kidneys' cry for health. Heed it.

Doan's Kidney Pills are what is wanted.

Are just what overworked kidneys need.

They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys; help them to do their work; never fail to cure any case of kidney disease.

J. D. Christian, living on Clarksville Street, Elton, Ky., says: "My kidneys were disordered for a long time, and although I took many remedies, I never received relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so entirely satisfactory that I'm constantly recommending them to other sufferers of kidney complaint."

Doan's Kidney Pills certainly rid my system of kidney complaint in a remarkably short time."

Plenty more proof like this from Hopkinsville people. Call at L. A. Johnson & Co.'s drug store and ask what their customers report.

NATURE AND A WOMAN'S WORK

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Nature and a woman's work combined have produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they relied upon the roots and herbs of the field to cure disease and mitigate suffering.

The Indians on our Western Plains to-day can produce roots and herbs for every ailment, and cure diseases that baffled the most skilled physicians who have spent years in the study of drugs.

From the roots and herbs of the field Lydia E. Pinkham more than thirty years ago gave to the women of the world a remedy for their peculiar ills, more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Bertha Muff, of 515 N.C. St., Louisiana, Mo., writes:

"Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my troubles public."

"For twelve years I had been suffering with the worst form of female ills. During that time I had eleven different physicians without help. No tongue can tell what I suffered, and at times I could hardly walk. About two years ago I wrote Mrs. Pinkham for advice, I followed it, and can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice restored health and strength. It is worth mountains of gold to suffering women."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Muff, it will do for other suffering women.

WASHING MACHINE.

Folding Apparatus Designed For Stationary Tubs.

Pictured in the accompanying drawing is a folding washing machine made for stationary tubs. It is of light weight and can conveniently be applied to any tub. The wash is cleaned by alternate pressure and suction, and there is no rubbing; hence there is no wear or tear of even the finest fabrics. The machine will operate with equal facility on heavy blouses. It comprises two leaves, each of which is composed of transversely arranged slats. The leaves are hinged together at one end, and one of the leaves is secured to the bottom of the tub, while the other is arranged to swing toward and from the stationary leaf, so that the water and suds in the tub will alternately be drawn in and forced through the clothes placed between the leaves.

It will be observed that the slats are beveled at one side. The purpose of this is to catch the clothes to prevent them from slipping out when the upper leaf is forced down upon them. The lower leaf is provided with a pair of vertical side bars which are hinged thereto and which are secured to the sides of the tub by means of U-shaped clamps. No special adjustment is required to accommodate the washing machine to various quantities of clothes. If a large number of pieces are put under the swinging leaf, the latter is operated at a greater angle with the lower leaf. At one side the leaves are cut away to provide access to the drain or discharge pipe of the tub, so that the plug may be removed without lifting out the machine and the wash water may flow out without being impeded by the clothing in the machine. Whenever desired the clamps may be loosened and the machine lifted out of the tub and completely folded. In its folded position the machine takes up little room and may be conveniently carried about. The inventor of this machine is Mrs. J. W. O'Connor, New York.

KEEP THE MOUTH CLEAN.

Sound Teeth and Gums Prime Requisites For Good Health.

"Don't scrub your conscience; scrub your teeth," was the substance of the advice given by Dr. M. H. Fletcher in the American Medical Association's session on stomatology, which met recently at Chicago in the First regiment armory. He read a paper on "Diseases of the Alveolar Process." "The gums should be rubbed with a stiff bristle toothbrush," declared the doctor. "The gums should be rubbed as with the tooth, as hard as the palm of a person's hand. No care of the teeth seems to be the almost universal rule. One of my patients put it very nicely to me after I had explained to her the proper methods. I thought I had been cleaning my teeth all these years," she said, "but I find that I have only been cleaning my conscience."

"If the mouth could at all times be kept perfectly clean there would never be any decayed teeth or visits to the dentist. As it is, much that is paid to the dentist could be saved by proper care. Good teeth and healthy gums are prime requisites for good health."

The Age of the Earth.

The possibility of definitely arriving at the age of the earth through the radio-active properties of radium and helium has been pointed out by R. T. Strutt before the Royal Institution of London. Accepting the hypothesis that helium is constantly at a definite speed from radium, Mr. Strutt proposed a quantitative estimation of the radium and the helium present in various minerals as a means of determining their relative ages. Proceeding on similar lines, when once the rate at which radium is transformed should have been estimated a simple operation in arithmetic would solve the problem of the age of the earth. "I have," said Mr. Strutt, "been able to find that the age of flints present in chalk is only one-thirtieth of the age of the mineral that is being mined in Cornwall."

Where Electricity Exels.

Electricity excels all other methods at transmission for convenience, says the Scientific American. An electric cable may be strung where required, and machinery may be arranged in any position without reference to lineshafts. There are, of course, instances, however, where rope drive will save both in first cost and in cost of operation, particularly when the process of manufacturing calls for a number of parallel shafts with machines nearly in one plane.

THE HALL OF FAME.

The only presidents named William were the first Harrison and McKinley. William Winter, New York's famous dramatic critic, recently celebrated his seventy-second birthday.

William Waldorf Astor has given $5,000 to assist the British school at Athens in carrying on its excavations in Laconia, Greece.

Stuyvesant Flat says, out of his wide experience, it is harder for a man having $200,000 a year income to come down to $500,000 a year than it is for the $15 a week man to come down to $10.

M. Rieu, the French minister of agriculture, has made James B. MacLaughlin of Columbus, O., a commander of the order of Merit Agricole. Mr. MacLaughlin is an importer of French horses.

A persistent rumor that President and Mrs. Roosevelt will visit England next year is current in American circles abroad. It is said that he will stay six months in London with his family and will study the organization of the navy and the management of the dockyards.

Miss Elizabeth S. Cotton of Easthampton, Mass., speaks more languages than any woman in the world. She has just returned from the east, where she has spent a long time in the study of oriental languages. Miss Cotton knows forty languages sufficiently well to read them.

Sergeant Major Robert Elliot of the English army, now in his eighty-second year, has been awarded the Royal Victoria Medal for the longest continuous service of any man ever in the military service of Great Britain. Major Elliot's service extends as far back as January, 1822.

When Mrs. Scott Duran of Chicago found that she had sunk $20,000 in her model dairy and was not likely to get anything out of it, she decided to personally conduct it for awhile and await the result. She put on a white dress and apron and went to work, playing dairymaid with a purpose, and now she has one of the most profitable dairies in her part of the country.

Flower and Tree.

It is said that the first weeping willow in England was planted by Alexander Pope, the poet.

Wild olive trees last centuries in Turkey, and there are some which fully 1,000 years are claimed.

The vine attains a great age, continuing fruitful for at least 400 years. It is supposed to be equal to the oak as regards longevity.

The leaf of the cocoon tree is nearly thirty feet long. A single leaf of the parrot magnolia of China affords shade for fifteen or twenty persons.

There are in London a number of great houses doing a worldwide business in orchids alone. Most of the plants come from Brazil. In the botanical gardens of Rio de Janeiro there are over 6,000 varieties of orchids.

Fly Catches.

Catcher Jack Warner of the Washington Americans has purchased a half interest in the Galveston club of the Texas league.

The former grand major league pitcher, Charles Nixon, is playing good ball for the Pueblo club of the Western league.

Pittsburg has unearthed a great shoveler in Outfielder Cobb and Coombs. He runs with Cobb and Coombs in the speed and accuracy of his pinging.

Jimmy McAleer's infield is the fastest he has had since he managed the St. Louis Americans. Ferris and Williams are playing the best ball of their careers.

English Etchings.

The delivery of London's milk requires 4,500 horses.

Five hundred fires are caused annually in London by lamp accidents.

In keeping the accounts at the Bank of England over fifty ledgers are filled daily.

A firm of Southampton builders recently failed because they erected houses on the site of an old haunted mansion, and no tenant would live there.

In London tipping has become a public scourge. In a west-end restaurant if you pay $4 for your dinner and do not leave a fifth of that sum as a tip you are looked upon as a skinditt.

Pith and Point.

We all get fooled in time.

The largest part of some people's life is the washbowl.

You cannot afford to have things given to you.

Every man who works at all works too hard to fool his money away.

Never tell a friend anything that would not look well in print with your name signed to it.

The fact that you had lots of good times when you were young is a poor umbrella to protect you from the rain of old age.

Legalized Theft.

We are told that the young Spaniards were taught to steal by the authorities for the purpose, presumably, of making them good forgers in wartime. In Egypt professional thieves gave in their names to the chief of the robbers and agreed that he should be informed of everything they might steal. The owner of lost goods applied to the chief for their recovery, and on payment of one-quarter of their value they were restored in full. The chief robber was salaried by the government.

"Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. Has been used with success in our family for eight years."—Mrs. L. Whiteacre, Buffalo, N. Y.

Our Real Army.

No nation ever can or ever did maintain at all times a standing army sufficiently great to defend itself against all other powers. The strength and the dependence of every government are in her citizen soldiers and are in exact proportion to their bravery and effectiveness. The state militia or national guard in our own country, the auxiliary reserve in England, the landwehr and the landsturm in Germany, stand behind and form the great military reserve of the regular armies of these nations—Army and Navy Life.

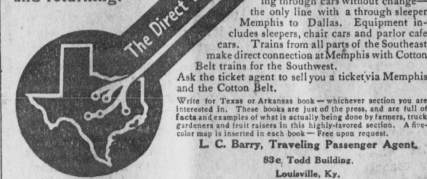

For a mild, easy action of the bowels, a single dose Doan's Regulets is enough. Treatment cures habitual constipation. 25 cents a box. Ask your druggist for them.

Buds in Reserve.

When a large branch of a tree is cut off, small branches will frequently shoot out round the stump. These branches are from reserve buds, of which all trees have a great number at every portion of their surface. Under ordinary circumstances these never come to maturity, but when the tree is wounded or cut off or loses some of its branches the reserve buds at once come into play and renew the foliage.

HUNTING HALL

Louisville Hiding Place of Witnesses Found By Their Enemies.

The Louisville Times says Sanford Hall and Tom Stephens are back in Louisville and many suspicious looking characters were seen hanging around their boarding house Wednesday night. The Times says: "An excursion train over the Illinois Central railroad brought several hundred visitors to Louisville from Western Kentucky. Many of them were men implicated by Hall and Stephens in their confessions. From Caldwell county alone there were sixty of the excursionists and in crowds of three or four they visited the neighborhood of Hall's boarding house, probably more out of curiosity than anything else."

Mrs. Rice saw small groups of men in the neighborhood last night. They came in crowds of three or four and would stop in front of her gate. She saw several groups, one of which contained six men, all of them wearing slouch hats, and appeared to be from the country.

"Whether they came here to do harm to Hall and his companions I don't know," said Mrs. Rice, "but their actions were very suspicious to say the least. Hall was almost terrified as it was, as he feared that harm would come to him, but he did not stay in Louisville last night. The strange men were in groups of three or four and they lingered around the gate, some of them coming in the yard and inquiring for Hall. Some of the neighbors telephoned the police, and that's all I know about it."

BURGLAR TICKLES A GIRL'S FEET

Screams On Awakening, Arousing Household, But Intruder Escapes.

The sight of pretty Martha Armstrong's well shaped feet peeping out from under the cover proved too much for the burglar who entered several Avalon houses this morning and by stopping to tickle the girl's feet he almost caused his own capture.

As it was the girl awakened and screamed, and several members of the household answered her cries. The burglar escaped.

Martha, 16 years old, was sleeping at the home of her uncle, T. E. Armstrong, when the burglar entered. The tickling sensation awakened the girl, who saw a strange man standing at her bedside.

"Mighty pretty feet you have," said the fellow.

Martha's only reply was a series of screams, and the man fled. He took articles worth $500 with him.—Pittsburg Telegram to the Philadelphia North American.

AS SEEN IN TRIGG.

September Will be a Busy Month For John Kelly.

The suit of Miss Louise Willis and others against John W. Kelly is set for trial in the Federal court at Paducah next Tuesday, September first.

The transcript of the record in the case of John W. Kelly, which was transferred to the McCracken Circuit Court by Special Judge Sims some weeks ago, was taken to Paducah a few days ago by Circuit Clerk A. C. Burnett. The case is set for trial about the first of October.

Mrs. Cassie Carr and Misses Mary and Lois Malone are visiting the family of Will Hancock in Hopkinsville.

Mrs. W. E. Williamson, of Hopkinsville, spent last week here with her sister, Mrs. J. R. Quarles.

Miss Lucile Ellis has returned to Hopkinsville after a visit to her cousin, Miss Mary C. Jago.

The meeting at Bethesda Methodist church, six miles north of Cadiz, closed last Friday night after being in progress about two weeks. There were thirteen conversions and eleven additions to the church. The pastor, Rev. Alex. Royter, and Rev. Jones, of Linton, did the preaching.

Miss Elma Logan, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. E. L. Hancock, for several weeks, will go to Hopkinsville this afternoon, accompanied by Miss Forest Major, where she will visit for several days before returning to her home in Nashville.—Cadiz Record.

NEGRO PROBLEM

The Greatest Question Before the Country, According to Grover Cleveland.

In the September American Magazine "The Interpreter" presents a mass of new material about Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Grover Cleveland and others in the form of personal recollections, new stories, and so on. "The Interpreter" once asked Mr. Cleveland for his opinion as to the greatest question before the country.

"Oh, there is only one," he said. "We can see our way through most of our difficulties. We can at least imagine a solution of all problems but one. But the negro question baffles everybody's understanding. No one knows what the answer is. No one knows when it will demand an instant answer. We can't take away the franchise from the negroes. No matter how foolish it was to give them a vote, we can't turn back. At the same time we can't let them gain political supremacy in the South. It will take centuries to educate them. I don't know what to think about it. It will be a burden on our children and our children's children."

Points About People.

CAYCE—Kenneth Cayce, the promising young son of Mr. D. D. Cayce, has gone to Lexington to accept a position with the Lexington Herald, and incidentally to enter the State University. The position is one that can be filled without interference with his school duties.

MOSELEY—The public generally has not been advised of the fact that there has been a change in Jones in the position of Superintendent of county road construction, an office created last year by reason of the building of turnpikes. Joe K. Twyman filled the place until Aug. 13, when Joe E. Moseley assumed the duties of the office.

Mr. Moseley is one of the best known farmers and Democratic politicians in the county. He owns a fine farm on the Fairview pike and once a year is the host of a bunch of town fellows who go out to his barn and have a feast of barbecued meats and drink lemonade and iced water.

In 1905 Mr. Moseley was a candidate for State Senator but withdrew from the race and the nomination went to Frank Rives. He has for a number of years been prominent in politics and knows nearly everybody in the county.

KIMMONS—William E. Kimmons, the well-known Louisville traveling man, or "Billy," as he is known to his intimates, displays excellent taste in the selection of his ties and scarfs. In fact his good taste has won for him the admiration of his friends, but it has also proved costly, for he spends more for ties than any man in Louisville.

"That's a beautiful tie you are wearing," said a friend of Mr. Kimmons. "It is just the tie I have been looking for, but my haberdasher never has anything quite that good or that handsome."

Then the friend has something to say of Mr. Kimmons' good taste.

"If you chance to see another tie like that you wear get it for me," is the parting words of the friend.

A few days later and the friend is seen wearing a tie of the same pattern that Mr. Kimmons wore when the compliment was passed. An old friend of Mr. Kimmons admired a brilliant red tie which he wore. He made known the fact and now friends of the friend are admiring his tie and complimenting him on his good taste. Thus it is that Mr. Kimmons' bill for ties is exceedingly heavy and he is the best customer that a Fourth avenue haberdasher has.—Louisville Times.

BLAKEY—Clayton B. Blaker, a Republican brother of Dr. Thos. W. Blakey, of this city, is to get a good place in Louisville, according to this item in the Post:

The terms of City Attorney A. E. Richards, First Assistant Morton K. Yonts and Second Assistant D. F. O'Sullivan, expire early in December. All were appointed by former Mayor Chas. F. Grainger.

It is stated that Mr. Clayton B. Blakey will certainly be appointed City Attorney to succeed Judge Richards. Mr. Blakey is not only indorsed by the party organization, but his abilities as an attorney are confirmed by all the prominent attorneys of Louisville. Mr. Blakey was graduated at law at the University of Michigan. Later he remained for several years in the offices of Helm & Bruce. For several years he has been practicing independently, with law offices adjoining those of Mr. John C. Russell.

Mr. Blakey will succeed Judge Richards early in September. For the positions now held by Mr. Yonts and Mr. O'Sullivan, Mr. William W. Crawford, now associated with Mr. John B. Baskin, and Mr. Joseph Conkling are suggested. Both will probably be appointed.

SAY HE IS BANKRUPT.

So Say Creditors of J. Miller Clark, of Hopkinsville.

A petition to have J. Miller Clark, of Hopkinsville, declared bankrupt has been filed in the U. S. Court. He has 12 creditors and their claims amount to about $1,000.

The petitioning creditors are: C. T. Cheek & Son, $466.05; A. Weikend & Co., $60.70; Henry D. Yonts, $13.34.

The petitioners say that Clark committed a deed of bankruptcy by transferring to his mother, Eliza A. Clark, property by mortgage for a debt of $2,000, thereby making his mother a preferred creditor. The defendant has been insolvent for the past six months.—Owensboro Inquirer.

Dr. Campbell Jollied.

Dr. D. A. Campbell, of this city, is an applicant for first assistant physician at the Hopkinsville asylum and while it is no affair of ours, as the Republicans are in the saddle, we have the right to say and take pleasure in saying that a better selection could not be made.—Bowling Green News.

Heavy, impure blood makes a muddy, pimply complexion, headaches, nausea, indigestion. Thin blood makes you weak, pale, sickly. Burdock Blood Bitters makes the blood rich, red, pure—restores perception of a new world.

ROBINSON'S CIRCUS

Will Play Hopkinsville September 21.

We are to have another circus next month, ten days ahead of the Ringling show on October 1st. The John Robinson agent was in town Thursday and closed contracts for September 21. It has been several years since two big shows entered into active competition in Hopkinsville and something is liable to be doing pretty soon in the advertising line. Many new bill boards will be put up all over town and all kinds of advertising will be used to set forth the strong points of the respective shows. Hopkinsville is the greatest show town on land and both circuses will do a hard office business.
